SUMMARY

Ask a check in question before starting a session to help get a gauge on your group and help participants share how they're feeling with each other before beginning a session.

SET UP

- Determine the order in which participants will share. Options include, going in a circle, having each participant popcorn to another participant, or having participants volunteer to share in any order.

INSTRUCTIONS

- Ask a check in question to the group. Possible questions include:
 - On a scale of one to ten, how focused (or excited, prepared, etc.) are you feeling?
 - What's one word to describe how you're feeling today?
 - What movie title (or song) best describes how you're doing right now?
 - What are you excited about for today? What are you nervous about for today?
 - What quote best summarizes you today?
 - What color of the rainbow are you feeling today and why?
 - What's one thing you're looking forward to this week?
- Have everyone share their answer. Depending on the risk level of the question, give participants the option to pass or not answer the question, or ask everyone answer it.
 - Facilitator Note: Depending on the group stage, consider if the facilitator should answer first to set the tone or help participants to feel more comfortable. If there is a question that is not as straightforward or obvious as to how to answer it, the facilitator should answer first.

VARIATIONS

- Consider asking these questions at the end of a session to use as a check out to close the day.
- 👥 Large Group: To facilitate this activity for a large group, pick questions that can be answered in just one word or a short phrase.
- 💻 Online: To facilitate this activity virtually, post an order of names in the chat and have the participants answer the question in that order. [\[click here for video\]](#)

DEBRIEF QUESTIONS

- How might your answer affect your contributions today?
 - What about your answer can help you to follow through with our groundrules today?
 - How can your answer help you accomplish a goal/task today?
- Facilitator Note: As a general note, icebreakers are used for the purpose of breaking the ice and getting a group warmed up to participate in lessons and activities that will include debrief questions. Typically an icebreaker does not need to be debriefed, however, when done intentionally, inserting a mini debrief or thought provoking question after an icebreaker can help to set up the rest of the lesson and tie the entire experience together in a more seamless fashion. These are some sample questions that can be used or modified to connect to the lesson that will follow.
